

2008–2009
Student Body
National Program Award Winners

Student Body High School Winner:

Brookings High
South Dakota

Brookings students project, “Health the Ultimate Treasure!” was the third annual health fair at Brookings High. FCCLA members worked with 12 groups and agencies in the Brookings community to create an event that would encourage teens and community members to make healthier choices. Topics covered at the fair included wellness exercises, teenage pregnancy, chiropractic health, skin cancer prevention, sex education, drugs and alcohol, and other health and wellness information.

Student Body Middle School Winner:

Eureka Junior High
South Dakota

Eureka Junior High’s project focused on promoting healthy eating, being physically fit, and making healthy choices. Healthy eating activities included distributing fruits and vegetables and healthy eating trivia. Physical fitness activities included educating elementary school students about fitness and keeping monthly wellness logs. Healthy choices activities focused on the harmful effects of tobacco.

Student Body Runner-Up:

Clarkston High

Washington

Clarkston students' project, "Focus on Children," was a health fair which educated elementary school students about important health issues. FCCLA members collaborated with seven local health agencies and businesses to present information on cleanliness, nutrition, exercise, and overall health.

